Midterm points for sale!

You can recover some lost points on your midterm by correcting your exam.

The rules:

- For each problem that you want to correct, you must submit the correct solution on a separate piece of paper.
- In addition to the correction, you must explain the general issues with this type of problem. This should be ~ 1/2 page per problem.
- You should submit your exam with the corrected problem and write-up, but you may not mark on your exam.
- If the correction is 100% correct, and the write-up deemed worthy, then half of the lost points will be given.
- No partial credit for corrections.
